A COMMITTEE APPOINTED

And Work Begun for a Home o

The idea proposed by some of the lacommittee was appointed to take some action on the matter. It consists of H. T. Collins, J. E. Sluder, Turner, Mitchell and Nelson and Dr. Rankin, Col. A. H. Baird and Capt. Patton. They are to report at the next meeting.

The committee have already started on the work and will be prepared some time before the board meets again to submit their report. Col. Baird, one of the members of the committee, was one of the original promoters of the scheme. He is heart and soul in it and will do all in his power to make it a success. The others are quite as deeply interested and most admirable and it is doubtful if it any doubt of this? will be accepted. It seems to be the idea of the committee to get some land near the city and build a home-one that will not only be convenient but arranged as it will be needed.

United States Postoffice Inspecto Canard in Asheville.

William Canard, a United States post office inspector, is in Asheville to-day. His trip here has no meaning for the local office, although he visited it this morning and expressed himself as pleased with everything he saw and admitted the necessity of another clerk. The power Wm. B. Hawes, of Fall River, Mass., is to employ the latter he is sure will be granted Postmaster Cannon in July. (i) match. the carrier system be had only words of praise and congratulated Mr. Cannon on his having secured so good a force.

Mr. Canard will remain in Asheville for several days and take a much needed rest. Then he goes to Statesville where he will assist in the prosecution of J. T. Patterson, who was arrested at Dysartsville, McDowell county, last summer for rifling the mails. Patterson was assistant postmaster at that place and his arrest was at the time a sensational piece of news.

While in the city Mr. Canard will be at the Grand Central.

A SENSIBLE SUGGESTION.

Not Have Such a One in Asheville?

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 15, '90. Editor Citizen: - In many of the larger cities, and a few of the smaller towns, there are societies of a charitable nature whose object is to assist sick members and procure for them a respectable burial. Such a society as this is the Vanderbilt Benevolent Association, of Charleston, S. C., which was organized January 14. 1886, and whose object as set forth in its constitution is thus expressed;

"The objects and purposes of said association shall be to work together in harmony, each for the good of the other, and all for the good of each. Help for our living when sick or in distress, and relief for the families of our dead are the underlying principles of this association."

The "benefits" are set forth at length in their constitution, but it is only necessary here to repeat in part some of them Mrs. M. W. Alden and Miss Maud Alden, of New York, are quartered at the Battery Park.

Jas. S. Middleton, a prominent insurance man, is at the Battery Park from Charleston, S. C.

When any active member who has been such for six months, and is in good standing, becomes sick or disabled and is treeby unable to follow his usual avocation, he shall receive $5 per week at the end of each week, for the lirst three weeks of his liness, 87 per week for the succeeding three weeks, 83 per week for the succeeding five weeks, should the sickness continue so long. In case of the death of an active member, provision is made for an assessment of firty cents per capita on every active, or active life member, and in no case is the benefit to his family to be less than $100."

The annual dues are: First, an initia-tion fee of $3 for those between 18 and 45 years of age, $5 for those between 45 and 50 years of age, and so on, the highest admission being $15 for memberships between the ages of 55 and 60. The quarterly dues are only $1.25, thus it is seen this association is liberal and char itable in the highest degree, and it seems not only feasible, but highly desirable to have a similar organization here, or one with the equally charitable object of furnishing the means for a respectable bur-

There are a large number of the laboring class, and those of limited in-comes, or even persons of larger means whose money may be tied up in some way, to whom a funeral means great hardship, and running into debt perhaps, to give decent burial to their loved ones. plan something similar to the char le association above referred to much suffering and privation could be relieved; by a small initiation fee and monthly dues of, say fifty cents, and a imilar assessment of fifty cents on the death of any member of an active mem-ber's family, the burden would fall lightly on every one and much anxiety and distress be averted. I would suggest that if the plan meets with general favor, lists may be left in different sections of the city and county, that all who desire to lend their assistance and obtain the benefits of such an association may so ex-press themselves, and when, say one hun-dred or more have so expressed their wish, a meeting shall be called at some public hall and the object more fully ex-plained and an organization perfected. I should be glad to give any further information as to the workings of the Vanderbilt association, as more fully ex-plained by its constitution. It has been many of the best citizens of Charleston on its roll, either as active, life, or contributing members, and as honorary members ex-President Cleveland, President Harrison and Vice-President Morton, who have all taken a very lively interest in its welfare. Very respectfully, JULIAN C. BREESE, First National Bank.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

Everybody ought to be treated humanely, and it may look like hard-heartedness for a physician to tell a patient dies of the city to Chief Baird that the that he has no chance for improvement if city should have a home of reformation he leaves home to seek a health resort. for fallen women has met with considera- But isn't it rather hard on the patient ble approval and at the last meeting of and even harder on his friends, to send the Board of County Commissioners a sick person on a journey of hundreds or miles to the South when it must be a fore gone conclusion in the physician's mind Mesdames W. L. Hilliard, L. M. Pease, that the sick one cannot gain at all by the trip? It isn't pleasant to go down to the railroad station and see people carried on board departing trains in a decide on the best course to pursue and state of pitiful exhaustion, especially when you've seen them arrive here in bac condition only a few months, or perhaps weeks, earlier. The thought is natural that the physicians ought to have been cruel only to be kind, and ought to have made a determined stand against the useless trouble, anxiety, pain and expense that the trip and its worse than uscless mission have been the means of making necessary. Asheville does great things; it may be safely stated that the home is but she cannot do it all. There has to be a foundation somewhere to start with or The old Newton academy property has there will be no attractive superstructure been offered to the committee for the of good health and good looks to carry home, but the surroundings are not the back to the invalid's home. played Mendelssohn's Concerto with an easy grace and refined taste that made it very enjoyable. The beautiful tone he produces, his ample bowing and his artistic phrasing infused new life into the oft-heard stand-by of all violinists, large and small. M. Musin's new "Caprice de Concert" is a composition calculated to display the virtuosity of the performer to great ad vantage, it is elegant and clear in style, and was played by the composer in the most perfect manner; his accurate double stopping, the absence of effort with which he executes the most difficult florid passages, the precision of his intonation. which he executes the most difficult horizonation, passages, the precision of his intonation, and above all, the profound feeling which pervades all his work, were highly appreciated by the audience, who testified their approval by enthusiastic applaus and numerous recalls, in response to which M. Musin played some very effect ive variations on the "Carnival de Ve nice" theme, the one in harmonics being particularly well rendered.
